

ABSTRACT

A fabrication technique for manufacturing an optical element is disclosed. It involves selectively plasma etching a multi-layer stack and covering the obtained relief profile with a film, for example a reflective coating.